Annick Banoun is a partner at HWG LLP, where she advises clients on telecommunications and media law.

Annick provides strategic advice to companies and organizations in the telecommunications and technology industries on a wide range of regulatory policies and related legal matters. She focuses on the regulation of over-the-top services, including video streaming, video gaming, cloud, content delivery network, video conferencing, and digital advertising companies, among other areas. She has extensive experience representing clients on wireline and wireless regulatory matters before the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), the National Telecommunications and Information Association (NTIA), and Congressional telecommunications-related working groups.

Annick serves as Co-Chair of the Federal Communications Bar Association's Wireline Committee.

Before joining HWG, Annick was an Attorney Advisor in the FCC's Wireline Competition Bureau, having joined the agency through the Attorney Honors Program. At the FCC, she handled a range of regulatory issues, including net neutrality and content moderation, affordable broadband access programs, and wireline transactions. She was a primary drafter of numerous FCC orders and other dispositional documents.

Annick received her J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center. Her legal experience also includes internships with the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, a major media and entertainment company, and a public media broadcast organization.
