Jackie Terry Hughes is a partner at HWG, and an experienced litigator and advisor to major corporations on risk management and prevention.

Jackie works closely with companies to help mitigate risk and keep employees safe through effective insurance strategies, contracting, policy drafting, and accident trending and analytics.

Pharmaceutical/Life Sciences/Consumer Health

Jackie has spent over a decade partnering with an international pharmaceutical and consumer healthcare company. In this role, Jackie oversees claims and litigation in the US, UK and the Republic of Ireland, and works key stakeholders in these jurisdictions to manage and reduce the possibility of reputational risk associated with claims and litigation. She works collaboratively with the in-house counsel to reduce costs, mitigate litigation through conclusion all while controlling legal expenditure.

Corporate Fleet Safety

Jackie has significant experience helping companies address fleet safety issues with a focus on fleet risk mitigation. She counsels clients regarding effective fleet safety policies and the enforcement of those policies, and works closely with fleet accident management vendors to identify trends and reduce risk. Jackie also has assisted in the management and resolution of catastrophic fleet litigation matters and organization with risk mitigation strategies.
